Greetings to the Summer School

DR. FRANK L. McVEY

Another Summer Session of the University of Kentucky opens on June 14. In some respects this session of the Summer School is the most notable in program and personnel. The purpose as always is to give new opportunities to the forward looking teachers and administrative officers of the state, that they may bring to their work larger vision and fresh interpretations.

I am glad to welcome most heartily and cordially the students who come to the Summer Sessions of 1937. I am wishing for them the full accomplishment of their hopes and ambitions. As a last word of welcome, I trust Mrs. McVey and I may have the opportunity of welcoming this summer all students at Maxwell Place some time during their stay at the University of Kentucky.

The Kernel Will Be Published Weekly Throughout Summer; Will Appear In Buildings Each Wednesday

Contrary to the distribution method used during the regular school year, the Summer Session Kernel will be distributed among the students by being placed in a conspicuous place in the various buildings on the campus.

The Kernel this summer will be published weekly and will appear each Wednesday in these buildings. It was necessary to have this first issue appear today in order to make public important announcements, but from now on, it will be ready for distribution each Wednesday morning at the various buildings. It will remain in these buildings for but three days, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, and will then be taken up. Consequently students are urged to take their copy early. All announcements and news relative to activities on the campus will appear in the paper.

First appearing in 1927 as a Summer Session publication, The Kernel continued its service until 1930 when it was discontinued as a summer publication. However, last summer, it resumed its summer service, and will now continue in that capacity.

Ross J. Chepeleff, Detroit, Mich., editor-in-chief of the paper during the regular school year, will act in that capacity throughout the summer months, and Alfred Vogel, business manager, will also continue that work during the Summer Session.

Acquisition of a group of mineral crystals from Boodle Lane, collector of the Tri-State zinc and lead district of Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas, has been reported by members of the University of Kentucky department of geology, now touring that district with students of the department, it was announced today.

In a message sent to the University by Dr. A. O. McFarlan, head of the department of geology, and David M. Young, curator of the Geology Museum, it also was said that 500 pounds of specimens from the Ste. Genevieve county, Iron Mountain and Pilot Knob districts has been shipped to the University.

1,459 Registered During First Day Period Last Year; This Year's Mark Is 106 Higher

CLASS SESSIONS UNDER WAY TODAY

Registration Will Continue Until Monday June 21

Rapidly climbing toward the point of breaking all previous summer enrollment records, 1565 students registered for courses during the Summer Session yesterday afternoon at the Alumni gymnasium. The total during the first day's registration period last summer was 1459, and yesterday's figure exceeds this by 106.

Simultaneously with the announcement of the first-day figures, Dr. Jesse Adams, director of the Summer Session, announced that registration will continue until Monday, June 21. On July 1, he added, additional students are expected to register for the two and one-half week short courses which will be offered at that time.

Last summer's total registration for the first five-week semester, including the short courses, was 1772. With 1565 already registered and several hundred more expected to register before the end of the week, to which must be included several hundred more students enrolling for short courses, this year's total for the first semester is expected to reach close to 2,000, assuring the setting of a new all-time high figure for Summer Session enrollment. The previous record was last summer's total of 1772.

Classes for the first semester will begin this morning, and registration for these courses will officially end on Monday, June 23. Doctor Adams expressed himself as being well-pleased with the probable outlook of a record registration.

A calendar listing the complete program for the first semester will be found on page two of today's Kernel, although it is probable that many other events will be added to the list as the semester progresses.

Plans Under Way For Summer Picnic

Annual Affair Scheduled For June 29; Bernie Shively Is In Charge

It was recently announced by Bernie S. Shively, of the department of physical education, that plans for the annual Summer School picnic, which will be held on June 29, are already under way.

At the present time, the site of the picnic grounds has not been selected, but the program has been tentatively planned to include events and refreshments similar to previous years. In this program are included a softball game between the faculty and students in the afternoon, and a floor show to be featured in the evening. Plans are also being made to serve as refreshment, burgo, which was the feature of last year's affair.

Col. J. T. Looney, famous burgo master, prepared the burgo at last year's picnic, and plans are being made to secure him to prepare the dish again this year.

Last summer's picnic featured many songs, dances, and novelty numbers by University students, and by the dancing schools of Lexington.

Mr. Shively is again in charge of the picnic this summer, and has announced that further and more final details of the event will be ready by next week.

Mountain Radio Listening Center Of U. K. Praised

"This is one of the most important radio experiments being carried on in the entire continent."

That is what Merrill Denison, technical adviser for the National Council On Radio and Education, New York, said today at the University of Kentucky, on just completing a four days' tour of the University's Mountain Radio Listening Center System. He was conducted on the tour by Miss Corrie Whitaker, project superintendent of the system.

A new system will be established next week at Elmrock in Knott county, which will become the twenty-fourth unit in the system, it was announced last Saturday. The new center will be located at the headwaters of Laurel Fork and will be under the direction of William Compton.

Spying On Other Campi

Indiana is again doing its part to eliminate that most dangerous of animals, the road hog, by experimenting with four new center-line markings; three of these are raised surfaces, which give the trespasser a sound jolt; the fourth is made of cat's eye reflectors.—Illinois Wesleyan Argus.

8 o'clocks Notice—Cold water splashed on the face of any sleeping person will dampen his ardor for a few extra minutes of dozing.

This truth is self-evident to Richard F. Hess, senior at Columbia University. When his alarm clock and radio failed to awaken him for early morning classes, he invented an automatic waterdumper that does the trick.

The complicated contraption, when attached to the alarm clock, turns on the radio and empties a glass of cold water on his face. Hess explains why he devised the system:

"I've been working pretty hard all year. When I started out, the alarm clock woke me up regularly. As the year wore on, however, I started sleeping through classes.

"After a while, I hooked the alarm clock to the radio, but during the last few weeks even the radio couldn't wake me up. Since I had to get up whether I wanted to or not, I added the waterglass unit."

Cribbers and answer-changers in a class at the University of Washington thought they were getting a bargain when the professor left the room for an hour during a final test.

But the "prof" got the better of the deal. Asked why he was loafing outside the room, he answered: "I'm giving a final examination."

"Aren't you afraid the students will crib?" the questioner wanted to know.

"No, I turned in the final grades yesterday," laughed the professor.

"Double feature shows are the third stage of movie evolution," says a writer in the Silver and Gold, student paper at the University of Colorado.

"First they had silent ones; the next group talked, and now the ones they show in double bills smell!"

A shriek in the darkness: "There's a man in the house," and 95 pajama-clad coeds at Ohio State University's Westminister hall jumped out of bed at 1:45 in the morning and stood shivering in the corridors.

Huddled in groups, the girls kept the neighborhood awake with screams for the next hour, many refusing to return to their rooms.

"One man wouldn't have a chance with 95 girls making this much noise," comforted Mrs. A. Cornuelle, house superintendent.

HERE SHALL THE KERNEL ALL STUDENT RIGHTS MAINTAIN

Welcome Summer Students

It is again the extreme pleasure of The Kernel to welcome to the University former and new students, graduates and undergraduates. Students sincerely in search of knowledge attending the University will find it here. It is gratifying that these students selected an educational colony which they believe is fully equipped to meet their needs.

The Kernel wishes it to be known that the position it holds on this campus is that of official portrayer and interpreter of news, catering it its interpretation to the needs and desires of the student body. It is your paper, existing to express your opinions on questions relative to affairs on this campus. It welcomes and encourages you to express your opinions, and is desirous of publishing your views.

The means of obtaining and strengthening cultural individualism exist. The library and professors are here to assist in opening the door to knowledge and culture. Whether this knowledge and culture are grasped by the student body depends entirely upon them.

It must also be remembered, however, that students are as much a part of the community of Lexington as they are of the University. In truth, merchants in town assist materially in making the students' stay at the University a successful and happy one. They assist materially in making it possible for The Kernel to act in its official capacity during the summer months. Through their advertisements in these columns they are expressing their appreciation of extended patronage, and invite future patronage of the students.

To those unacquainted with the University and Lexington, let it be known that the out-of-state reputation for hospitality and physical beauty of the "Bluegrass" is sincerely maintained. To persons who have lived in this community before, all the old, and many new advantages are available.

Again may The Kernel welcome all summer session students to the University, and may express its hope that their stay will be profitable and enjoyable, both educationally and socially.

A tooth—one which may prove to be one of the world's topmost paleontological discoveries by establishing proof man existed 100,000,000 years earlier on the earth than previously guessed—has been unearthed near Eddy, Okla.

"It is important, if a mammal tooth," said J. Willis Stovall, assistant professor of geology, "in that it will place the actual origin of mammals closer to the hypothetical time of their origin."

HONORARY DEGREE IS CONFERRED UPON GOVERNOR A. B. CHANDLER

An honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon Gov. A. B. Chandler, an alumnus of the University of Kentucky, in the class of 1923, at the institution's annual commencement exercises in the Alumni gymnasium, attended by more than 3,000 students, alumni and relatives of members of the graduating class. Governor Chandler received his degree from Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, who presided at the exercises. It was awarded after more than 300 members of the senior class and candidates for advanced degrees had filed across the stage for their diplomas. Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, dean of the Graduate School of the University of Kentucky, read the governor's past record as an alumnus of the school, his work in political activities in the state, and a list of his achievements while in office.

Annual Luncheon Held

At the annual luncheon in the University Commons cafeteria, attended by 450 persons, including new graduates, alumni and friends and relatives of the class members, Doctor McVey presided and introduced Governor Chandler, who spoke briefly. Tribute was paid to Doctor McVey by the governor, who said that the progress of the institution was due mainly to Doctor McVey's efforts during his tenure of service. He said the University of Kentucky was making more contributions to the commonwealth than at any previous time in its history, and praised several members of the faculty, including Prof. J. W. Martin, Dean J. H. Graham, Maj. William Hansen and others.

PROFESSOR JENNINGS WRITES TWO BOOKS

Two new books, "A History of Economic and Social Progress of the American People" and "A History of Economic and Social Progress of European Peoples," are just off the press, and were written by Dr. Walter W. Jennings, professor of economics at the University of Kentucky.

They are two distinctly new books which picture vividly the economic and social progress in Europe and America. The author has accomplished what no other textbook writer has succeeded in doing; a simplification style has been incorporated with concrete facts and up-to-date data, interpreted by the generous use of graphs. The use of graphs helps to eliminate the burden of groping through table after table of statistics.

Dr. Nathan Isaacs, Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration, has made the following statement about Doctor Jennings' contribution: "He has given a unified story in clear, readable style, and has succeeded in making some of the chapters, at least, delightfully interesting reading. I mean it purely as praise to compare his accomplishment to that of an internationally famous author. On the whole it might be said that he has read more, has made saner judgments, and has kept a better balance."

Coaching School In Basketball And Football Now Open

A ten days' athletic coaching school providing courses to coaches in basketball and football, under the direction of outstanding men in those fields, has been announced by Professor Potter, head of the department of physical education. The school will last from June 15 until June 25.

Basketball will be offered in the mornings from 10 o'clock until 12 noon, and will include lecture and demonstration work under the supervision of Coach Adolph Rupp, head basketball coach at the University of Kentucky, and Clifford Wells, basketball coach at Logansport, Indiana, high school. Coach Rupp's Kentucky teams have achieved national recognition by their constant excellence. Coach Wells, graduate of Indiana University, has been coaching basketball at Logansport high school for the past 19 years, during which time his teams have won the sectional tournament for 16 years. He has a 76 per cent winning average during his coaching at that school.

Football will be offered in the afternoon from 1:30 until 3:30 o'clock, and will include lecture and demonstration work under the supervision of a group of outstanding college and high school coaches in Kentucky. The football course is being offered on the "clinic" plan, that is each coach will discuss one or two phases of the sport.

The following coaches will teach: Claude "Monk" Simons, former Tulane star and present mentor at Transylvania; Ralph McRight, Alabama star under Wade, present coach at Hopkinsville high school; Joe Rupert, former U. K. captain and star, present coach at Cadetsburg high school; Frank Mosely, former Alabama star under Thomason, and present assistant coach at U. K.; and Bernie Shively, former all-American from Illinois, and present member of the U. K. department of physical education.

At the Movies

Remembering the frequent calls for suggestions as to how to spend one's spare time during the summer made last year, we have decided to assist by listing the current attractions at the local theatres.

At the Kentucky theatre ending today we have that much publicized "Parnell" starring Clark Gable and Myrna Loy. Starting tomorrow we have "Make Way for Tomorrow" with that character Victor Moore and Beulah Bondi which will play until Friday. Starting Saturday June 19 and continuing for the entire week through Friday "Mountain Music" with the famous comedian Bob Burns and the songstress Martha Raye.

At the State theatre next door "Mary of Scotland" with Katharine Hepburn and Frederic March, which will play through Wednesday. The other feature playing during this same period is "Mr. Cinderella" with Jack Haley and Betty Furness. Thursday and Friday "Dangerous Number" with Robert Young and Ann Sothern, and "China Passage" with Worth and Hawthorn. On Saturday "Racing Blood" with Richmond and Darro, and "Left-Handed Law" with the "gun totin'" Buck Jones. Then of course, is added the beloved serial "Jungle Jim No. 6." Sunday and Commons Found Popular At U. K.

U. K. Eating Place, On Third Floor of McVey Hall, Serves Needs

The very thought of good food puts students of the Summer Session in mind of the Commons, the University cafeteria. Beyond doubt the most popular eating place on or off the campus, students for years have favored the Commons with their patronage.

This year, as in the past, the Commons is open for student trade, offering at extremely reasonable rates food and beverages prepared for the most discriminating tastes. The atmosphere of the Commons is synonymous with congeniality. You will enjoy the convenience, the cleanliness, and the hospitality of the surroundings.

Monday through Saturday the Commons opens at 6:20 a. m. and continues to serve breakfast until 8:30. At 11:30 a. m. until 1:00 p. m. lunch is served. Dinner is on the menu from 5:15 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. No Saturday night dinners are served and the Commons is closed all day Sunday.

A continued policy inaugurated last summer calls for Chicken Dinners on Tuesdays and Steak Dinners on Thursdays.

Another feature of the Commons is the excellent fountain service to the students throughout the day. When one is hot and dusty after a brisk walk from one class to another, it is easy to go to the fountain for that "coke."

The Commons may be reached by the use of the elevator that picks up passengers on both the ground and basement floors of McVey hall, thus accommodating all who wish to use it.

After eating at the Commons once, you will always return, so try this popular campus eating place. Get the "Commons Habit."
